ABOUT CAROLYN

Carolyn McIntyre, an animal rehabilitation trained and registered physiotherapist, is the owner/operator of McIntyre Canine Rehabilitation located in Erin, Ontario, Canada. Carolyn primarily works with canine athletes both in person at her clinic as well as within her online community. In addition to helping canine athletes fast track their fitness and performance through her systematic approach to canine fitness, she also works to manage both current and chronic injuries and has a comprehensive Return to Sport Program. Carolyn offers a variety of online canine fitness programs geared towards canine athletes which are sport specific and include a variety of levels (e.g., foundations/advanced). She also has both group and 1:1 high level personalized coaching programs. She is the author of "Warm Up and Cool Down of the Canine Athlete: An Evidence-Based Approach to Improving Performance and Preventing Injury" and has been the canine physio practitioner for the 2019 and 2020 Canadian agility team that competed at the IFCS World Agility Championships. She holds a Master of Science in Physiotherapy and a Diploma in Canine Rehabilitation through the Canadian Physiotherapy Association.

Carolyn trains and competes in several dog sports, primarily agility with her Aussie - Quinn and her Shelties - Fifty, Shades, and Keeper.
